

We connect products. Leitwert leverages the potential of digital technologies to enable new value creating solutions for the key challenges in industry and healthcare. Based on our expertise in electronics, asynchronous programming and web technologies we develop modular solutions to revolutionize the industrial and health care sector. Leitwert is competent on every level of the IoT stack. You too? Join our team as

Full Stack Developer (f/m)

Your role.

You are part of the Leitwert Web Team where you closely collaborate with your colleagues who are software engineers or product managers. You work in agile, self-organizing teams. You build the beautiful and functional web front-end and back-end and software apps for our products and custom client projects. You contribute to the advancement of our software stacks.

Your responsibilities.

- You design, implement and test both front-end and back-end for our SaaS solutions as well as custom client projects (web and mobile applications)
- You design testing strategies together with the team in order to guarantee functional code
- You set up and monitor our server infrastructure
- You are the contact person in technical requests for our clients
- You support the business development team with your technical expertise

Your profile.

You have a positive, proactive and open personality. You work independently and easily adapt to new challenges. You convince with your hands-on working attitude.

And you have:

- >5 years of hands on experience in front end and web development
- Exceptional programming skills in JavaScript, CSS, HTML and sound experience in web development and a good experience in DevOps
- Experience with JavaScript frontend frameworks such as VueJS; React or similar
- Experience with python-based backend frameworks such as Django
- Competences with revision control systems (Git) and testing frameworks
- Fluent in English (German is advantageous)

Preferably you also have:

- Experience with cyber security
- Skills in cross platform mobile app development (e.g. using Ionic / Quasar and Cordova)
- Experience in agile software development

Our offer.

Leitwert offers diverse project-based work in a highly motivated team of experienced developers. With our start-up spirit we trust in everyone's ability to create great stuff and count on the success of our dynamic interdisciplinary team. We empower the people to actively shape the company culture. Our office is in Zurich nicely situated right next to the lake. Together with you we invent the world of tomorrow.

Are you an ambitious personality who convinces us with elegant code? In that case, we'd be delighted to have you on board.

We are looking forward to your complete application on: jobs@leitwert.ch